Automatic flowpack packaging machines

Wrapping adapts to meet all needs

Horizontal flowpack packaging line with gas flushing

The range of so-called “flowpack” machines offers a wide range of possibilities to meet all packaging needs, whether it is simple mechanical protection or improved preservation.

Different elements are taken into account to adjust the packaging corresponding to the product:

- The choice of the conformator makes it possible to prioritize the format changeover time or the positioning as close as possible to the film on the products,
- The different types of conveyors allow automation of packaging lines,
- The positioning of the film reel, upper or lower, to be defined according to technical or aesthetic questions,
- And the type of welding according to the desired packaging.

It should also be noted that flowpack packaging has a significant economic aspect insofar as the films used can be thin.

The ease of use and accessibility of the flowpack lines allows the packaging of products in various formats.
